A sequence diagram with three lifelines:

- designer (actor)
- comments/questions tab (view)
- comment model / question model

Messages:

- designer open page → (from designer to view)
- comments are fetched from the db → (from comment model to view)
- comments are visible to the designer → (from view to designer)
- designer wants so see questions → (from designer to view)
- request all questions in page from the db → (from view to question model)
- all questions in the page are fetched from the db → (from question model to view)
- all questions are visible to the designer → (from view to designer)